BUILDING THE LIVING STONE WAY will impact the way you live. It is through our People, our Process and our Product that we are improving the building practices that effect your future.

The home building process reaches far beyond just “construction”. When you build a home with Living Stone, we will be taking into consideration ALL of the things that are important in your next transition. By bringing together these pieces of the puzzle—we create for you the perfect package and maximize your investment. With the Living Stone team, you will be Designing Green and Building Green, but we will also work with you on how to live healthier (and longer), by Living Green.
